

Free PhD in Public Health Sciences Admission & Informational Webinars*Register online using the following dated links
below!*Wed., Oct. 16th, 2019
5:00 to 6:00 PM PST*Thur., Nov. 14th, 2019
Noon to 1:00 PM PST*For more information visit
phs.ucdavis.edu

Is Public Health in Your Future?

Earn Your PhD in Public Health Sciences at UC Davis!

As part of this new doctoral degree program in Public Health Sciences at UC Davis, you will become a highly educated public health research professional prepared for leadership in governmental public health agencies, community-based public health organizations, and academic health centers. This research training will enable you to create innovative, evidence-based approaches to meet critical future societal health needs, particularly those of diverse populations. Students will also receive mentoring and experience teaching to educate the next generation of academic public health professionals and leaders in their field.

Why UC Davis?

- Top ranked faculty in public health and related disciplines
- Strong collaborative links with the California Department of Public Health, local health departments and other public health agencies
- Rural location, yet close to urban centers and state and local health departments
- Opportunities for training in several state agencies are critical to meeting the doctoral program's mission of preparing individuals to serve as practitioners, researchers, and teachers in local, state, national and international settings.

Is a PhD in Public Health Sciences for you?

Join one of our online webinar to meet our Program Chair & Director and learn more about the program and admission requirements!

Public Health Sciences
School of Medicine

181 Medical Science, 1C
One Shields Ave.
Davis, CA 95616

e. PHSInstAffairs.ucdavis.edu
p. 530-754-9048