Refine Professional Skills

At the end of their 1700-hour, 46-week service term, AmeriCorps members are more empathetic, organized, detail-oriented, communicative, culturally sensitive, public health savvy, and civically engaged individuals.

Brainstorm Ways of Reducing Health Disparities

AmeriCorps members learn about the intricacies of health injustice in the community.

Members are an integral part of local efforts in developing ways to reduce health disparities in low-income/LGBTQ/homeless populations and communities of color.

Becoming Culturally Sensitive, Responsible Members

NHC AmeriCorps members come from a variety of racial and ethnic groups, gender identities and sexual orientations, socioeconomic statuses, abilities, and educational experiences. By serving all local communities, NHC AmeriCorps members become more empathetic community members through respectful interaction and collaboration.
